Q2. Do you think a universal, card-based system (modelled on the c-card system for free condoms) would be an effective means of providing sanitary products for free to those who need them?

Unsure

Q3. Which of the following best expresses your view in relation to a card-based system?

The card should be available only to those on low incomes or in receipt of benefits; card-holders should have unlimited access to free sanitary products

Doctors surgeries, health clinics and chemists

Yes

Page 12: Personal experience (questions 6 and 7 are for individual respondents only)

Q6. Have you ever struggled to access or afford sanitary products during menstruation? (e.g. financial barriers, unexpected circumstances, health issues)

Yes, occasionally

Please explain or give an example of your experience if you feel able to do so.

I get my period twice a month and it's very heavy all the time. I have to change my pads every hour and a half otherwise I am liable to flood. I go through three or four packets every time and sometimes I have to double up on the pads at night time, so I don't leak. At £3.00 upwards a pack it's a lot of money to spend when I have a small child to look after and a house with bills to pay.

Q6. Have you ever struggled to access or afford sanitary products during menstruation? (e.g. financial barriers, unexpected circumstances, health issues)

Q7. If sanitary products were available for free, which of the following would apply to you?

I would expect to claim free products occasionally
